

MDTA WELDING CLASS AT WEST LIBERTY TO BE FOR VETERANS

CEP Pgm. Endangered Manpower Committee Seeks 2nd Class

An 18-week MDTA welding class is scheduled to start at West Liberty Aug. 17. It will provide welding training for 18 area men and will be taught by Ray Stratton of West Liberty.

A recent switch in federal priorities, however, dictates that the class will be made up predominantly, and "probably entirely" of Vietnam War veterans, according to Dale Howard of the Morehead Unemployment Office, which screens applicants for MDTA training classes.

Howard told this newspaper that approximately two-thirds of the 18 trainees will be from Morgan County. The remainder will be from Elliott, Carter, Menifee, Bath, and Rowan.

The class originally was set up to train men from the rolls of the underemployed, and some from the Morgan County Concentrated Employment Program (CEP).

As a result of the priority switch, the Morgan County CEP program may sustain a loss of operating funds. Federal officials have warned local CEP officials that unless some of the county's 44 CEP participants are enrolled in some type of training program before October 31, the program may not be refunded.

"We were really banking on this welding course," said CEP Director Paul Carpenter, "and there are no other training courses available for CEP participants at this time."

The 44 CEP participants are all former participants of the old Work Experience and Training Program.

A loss of CEP operating funds would badly cripple the home repair for the elderly program in Morgan County, Carpenter said. He pointed out that "around 30 of the 44 CEP participants are employed with the home repair program."

The manpower development committee of the Morgan County Development Association this week launched an effort to secure a second MDTA welding class at West Liberty to run simultaneously with the class that begins Aug. 17 or to commence immediately after the 18-week course for veterans is completed.

Carpenter said he was hopeful that the second class could be approved and that some CEP participants could be included in it for training.

DEATH COMES TO MRS. W. H. WELLS, AFTER SURGERY

Mrs. Clayton Freeman Wells, 85, wife of W. H. "Tooger" Wells of West Liberty, died Saturday evening in Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington following surgery for a broken hip sustained the day before when she fell off a chair at her home.

Though in failing health for several months, Mrs. Wells kept active at her home, but had been unable to attend church for some time. She was a devoted member of the West Liberty Christian Church, and for several years had written a column of news from her church for The Courier.

Born in Versailles, she was a daughter of Ben Franklin Freeman and Elizabeth Crawford Freeman. Her first husband, Robert H. Young, died in 1940, after which she worked in Frankfort, where she met Mr. Wells, also a state employee. They were married in 1947, and came to West Liberty to make their home.

In West Liberty she had endeared herself to many, many people. She exhibited a positive philosophy of life, always cheerful, and was eager to help in all worthwhile endeavors. In addition to her church news column, she served in all offices, at one time or another, of the church woman's organization, and for some time taught the adult Bible class each third Sunday. She had served as president of the local Woman's Club and vice-chairman of the county chapter for infantile paralysis, and she was a member of the Garden Club.

Her life in West Liberty was one of service and devotion to others and to her church. She and her husband were a devoted couple.

Last rites were conducted Tuesday morning at Herald and Stewart Funeral Home Chapel in West Liberty and interment was in Salyers Cemetery here.

Rev. Steve Bliffen, pastor of The Christian Church, spoke the funeral oration, and Rev. Robert Myneer, pastor of the Methodist Church, read a beautiful obituary and offered prayer. The Christian Church Choir sang three hymns. A large assemblage attended the funeral.

Mrs. Wells is survived by her husband, W. H. Wells. Though she had no children, she loved her two step-children, Mrs. Victor McKenzie of West Liberty, and Henry Wells of Frankfort, and had a close bond of affection for her husband's grandchildren and great grandchildren.

TEMPERATURES HERE SOAR AS DOES WATER USE

Water consumption in West Liberty during the current heat wave has forced water works personnel to maintain round-the-clock pumping two days this week, according to Arnold Helton, water works supervisor.

Temperatures of 90 to 95 degrees have been registered here every day since last Friday, he added.

At no time, however, as there been a shortage in the reservoir tank, he added, and the water in the tank has been maintained at a high level.

Barring a major power failure which would shut down pumps at the pumping station, there appears to be little danger of a water shortage at present.

The river is low, Helton said, but not low enough to impair pumping.

AUNT JESTON'S BROTHER IS 103—

When U.S. Bought Alaska, Charles Testerman Was Born

By Charles Surratt

In 1867 Russia sold Alaska to the United States for $7.2 million.

On Monday, July 22, 1867, the National baseball club of Washington defeated the Union baseball club of St. Louis 113 to 28.

And while Washington was drubbing St. Louis, a baby boy was born in Morgan County, Ky. Today that baby, Charles F. Testerman, is 103 years old.

His family had moved from Virginia to Morgan County shortly after the end of the Civil War, two years before his birth. His older sister, the late Aunt Jeston Gevedon of Grassy Creek, who lived to be 107, used to tell him stories of battles in Virginia and the long move to Kentucky by covered wagon.

But Testerman's early memories are of farming along the Licking River — farming with mules on a hillside. Later he worked in a saw mill and grist mill before returning to farming.

"I've sowed thousands of railroad ties," he said, "and ground thousands of bushels of corn." The lumbering wasn't easy in those days — the railroad would accept only white oak.

In 1898 he was ordained as a Baptist minister, and he spent many years preaching on Sunday and farming the other six days. "I donated all my religious services without pay — never took a penny," he said.

For 17 of those years as a preacher he was pastor of the Mainville Baptist Church.

That was after he moved to Mainville, Ohio, in 1921 and worked the old Butterworth Farm for four years. Then he bought a 45-acre farm a couple of miles east of the Little Miami River, which he worked until he was 75.

His wife, the former Ann Harvey of Morgan County, died 23 years ago, and since then he's taken life fairly easy.

Testerman lives on a corner of his old farm with a son Raymond, one of nine children. Four are still living. Besides Raymond, they are Curt and Robert Testerman and Mrs. Sherman Wilson.

Testerman also has 15 grandchildren, 31 great-grandchildren, and two great-great grandchildren.

He doesn't get out of the house now, but still makes his meals at the table and shaves himself every morning with an electric razor.

And his memory's not quite as good as it once was. He's not too clear on things that have happened recently — he remembers the old time better. He doesn't know his life has stretched from Reconstruction to a moon landing.

"We tried to explain it," his son said, "but he couldn't get it straightened out. As far as he's concerned there is no space program."

Testerman has no formula for living long. He worked hard all his life. He never drank. He never smoked. He was rarely sick, after a bout with typhoid fever in his younger days.

He always enjoyed life, and now enjoys his memories. While others are fighting freeway traffic and hanging on airline timetables, he sits back in a rocker and his mind follows a team of mules around a hillside in Kentucky.

Casing Set And 7,900 Ft. Depth Cemented At A

Casing has been set and cemented—7,900 feet of it—in Monitor Petroleum's deep-test well in eastern Elliott county, and preparations are being made to fracture a number of possible pays in the 9,600-foot well.

Drilling was stopped Monday of last week when the drill bit hit a granite wash atop the basement rock. Depth, it is thought, was about 9,600 feet, possibly a little deeper, but no definite announcement of the exact depth has been given out.

Schlumberger Logging Service of Charleston was called in, and made a comprehensive log the entire depth of the hole. Later, drill stem tests were made.

Then the pipe was set last weekend, and cemented. It has already "set" the needed three days.

But a smaller cable-tool rig has not yet arrived to help with the "frack" job. It was due Wednesday, but has been delayed for a few days.

Monitor's division engineer, Bieck Strickland, said Saturday, "We have a number of pays that look pretty good, particularly one just below the St. Peter at about 4,600 feet."

He said officials had not yet decided how many formations they would frack, but indicated it would be at least three, and possibly five.

A strong flow of gas was hit at about 4,600 feet. This was cased off, and drillers continued on to the granite.

The well is on the Cecil Ison farm at Stephens at the mouth of Ison Creek on Little Fork.

OBITUARY

WELLS

Clayton Freeman Wells was born November 22, 1884, at Versailles, Woodford County, daughter of Ben Franklin Freeman and Elizabeth Crawford Freeman. At 18 she was married to Robert H. Young, who died in 1940, after which she worked in Frankfort where she met W. H. Wells of West Liberty. They were married in December 1947 and came to West Liberty to make their home.

Clayton, as she was known, loved her new home and one time remarked, "I love the hills and our small home here. I have loved West Liberty from the day I got here, and you can say I'm a Morgan Countian by choice." Soon after arriving in her new home she began writing a news column for First Christian Church, West Liberty, and each week in the local newspaper she wrote of church activities in such an entertaining way, interweaving her philosophy of life and love for her fellowman, that it quickly became a column to look for and read first. What many people did not know was that she wrote her column and many letters to friends by using not only glasses but a strong magnifying glass as well. Her writing was what is meant by the phrase, "A labor of love."

She loved her husband, her home, and friends and the hills, but her church and her God were first. In addition to her church column, Clayton served in all offices of her church woman's organization and for some time taught the Adult Bible Class every third Sunday. She served as chairman of the church worship committee for several years, was president of the Morgan County Woman's Club in 1951-52, and Vice chairman of the Morgan County Chapter for Infantile Paralysis. She was a member of the West Liberty Garden Club.

Clayton had a gift for making friends and for seeing the value of each person to a community, particularly those who had not been as fortunate as she had been all her life. After she had been a resident of West Liberty 11 years she was asked if she still liked living in Morgan County. "It is the same as the first year I was here. I love it and all the wonderful people who call it home."

On July 13, 1970, she wrote to a friend: "I am thankful I have had so many good years with all the wonderful people in West Liberty. They had really made my disability worthwhile." In the same letter she mentioned trips to a doctor who had made tests for a heart condition. In her usual witty manner she wrote, "Two electrocardiograms say all that will do me any real good is a new heart. Do you know where I might get one?"

A week later at about 3 p.m. Saturday, July 25, in Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, she made the crossing to a new life and a new heart.

Clayton leaves her husband, who was devoted to her and who shared her life of friendship for others, and though she had no children she loved her two stepchildren, Mrs. Victor McKenzie of West Liberty and Henry Wells of Frankfort, and had this same close bond of affection for her husband's grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Hers was a life of service and devotion to others. In loving her husband, home, church, and fellowman, she found her calling in this life.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday, July 28, at 10 a.m. from the Herald and Stewart Funeral Home Chapel. Officiating at the final rites were Rev. Steve Bliffen and Rev. Robert Myneer. Interment was in the Salyers Cemetery at West Liberty.

At right, Danny Hamilton, Eva Gay Hutchinsin, and other members of the sixth grade go through the serving line in new lunchroom at Crockett Elementary School. ESEA funds totaling $68,000 helped enlarge and improve lunchroom facilities at the school. Jane Legg, left, and Eda McDaniel serve food from hot food counter in photo at bottom left. Bottom right, Elsie Williams is shown removing biscuits from the new top oven unit.

Crockett School, built with WPA labor in the 1930's, has received a face lifting and modernization during the past five years.

Modernization projects, financed with $151,400 in federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act funds, have brought major improvements in several areas, including—

- Expansion and modernization of lunchroom and kitchen facilities.
- Installation of a new water and water filtering system.
- Installation of a new heating system.
- Installation of a new and vastly-improved lighting system.

The lunchroom was expanded and modernized at a cost of $68,000. The old lunchroom area was converted into a dining room capable of seating 115 children.

This means all children can now be fed between 11 a.m. and 12:20 p.m. In the past, it required two hours to feed all the students.

An area equal in size to the old portion of the building was added to the rear and furnished with ultra-modern, all electric, stainless steel kitchen appliances. This area also includes a large food storage room and rest facilities for the cooks.

The new water system provides filtered water with uniform pressure throughout the school. A new well was drilled in order to obtain water with less sulphur and iron content.

The new heating system includes a new boiler room housing a new stoker-fed furnace. There are four circulating air systems with a pump for each. One serves the lunchroom, one the gym, and one each for the front and rear parts of the building. Thermostats control the temperature in each room separately, eliminating the problem of having one room too hot and another too cold. Heaters are the convention type which run along the outside wall of each room.

Total cost of the heating system was $40,000.

New lighting and electrical outlets were installed in the old (WPA-built) portion of the building. All classrooms now have two rows of fluorescent lights running the length of the room. Outlets were installed in the front and rear of each room. The hall and stage also are lighted with fluorescent lights. Gymnasium lights were replaced with 500 watt mercury vapor lights.

Lighting in the classrooms went from 5.5 foot candles to around 60 foot candles. Cost of the new lighting system was $5,400.

Contractor for the improvements was Frederick and May Construction Co. of West Liberty.

Other improvements during the past five years include a new library and a reading room completed at a cost of $38,000.

Mines are Worst Pollution Sources

A VISIT WITH NATURE MINERS ARE WORST

By Rufus M. Reed

One of the worst killers of life in streams is acid drainage from both abandoned deep and strip mines. Where large areas have been stripped and huge spoil banks of earth, gob, pieces of coal and other debris are left fully exposed to the air and water, there is a constant drainage of poisonous, corrosive acids into the streams. The pollution is worse where the coal streams are left exposed to weathering.

The worst pollution of this kind comes from the abandoned deep coal mines scattered throughout the mining regions of the Appalachians. Year after year these abandoned mines keep sending multiplied millions of gallons of poisonous chemicals into the streams, killing the fish, frogs, tadpoles, crawdads and the water creatures that devour the organic matter and keep the streams purified.

Scattered throughout the mining regions there are said to be 20,000 abandoned coal mines. The burning question is, Why haven't these abandoned mines been sealed off so as to prevent pollution of the streams? One problem is, there are many of these mines out places that are hidden, unknown, their former owners or operators cannot be located, neither can these mines be spotted by aerial survey. Many of them are now located in remote places and are hidden by rank foliage. However, before we can hope to have clean water abounding with fish and aquatic life, it is necessary that all these abandoned mines be found and completely sealed off against pollution of the streams.

When coal is uncovered and left exposed to air and water, the pyrites become oxidized, producing acids with an orange yellow stain. In some sections of Appalachia, this pollution is called "Yellow Boy," from its bright orange yellow stain left on plants, rocks and other objects along streams. It is an iron sulfide compound formed from iron pyrites, called "fool's gold." This pollution emptying into a creek or a river soon kills all the aquatic life. In one area, drainage from an old strip-mine operation was checked; it had killed over 1,000 fish in the streams nearby.

There are at present some six thousand miles of acid mine water in the stream of Appalachia. The pollution is worst in the great coal-producing states: West Va., Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and Maryland. The worst polluted streams from mine drainage are: The Allegheny, Monongahela, Susquehanna and Potomac Rivers. In the Kanawha-New River drainage System, it is estimated that 77 million gallons of acid mine water enter the river system each and every day. A large coal mine may spew out 10 million gallons of water a day.

The menace of mine-water pollution is a most serious one. How can we have clean water in Appalachia unless we attack the problem at its source? Before we can purify our streams of the region, it is absolutely necessary to ferret out all the abandoned mining areas — both stripmines and deep mine systems — and stop the pollution at its source. The only life that can thrive in a stream polluted with the orange-yellow acids from sulphur dioxide is the acid-loving algae. The fish, frogs and the water creatures that furnish them food are all soon killed. This is a corrosive acid that soon eats away iron pipes, bridges, boat hulls and other navigation equipment. Such pollution makes it very difficult to treat water and make it fit for use in homes and other places.

In view of the great Anti-Pollution Program of our Federal Government, one might well ask, Why aren't the abandoned mines and strip areas made safe against acid drainage? There should be no further delay in stopping this type of pollution. Much valuable time is being lost by the government's anti-pollution agencies in figuring out the best ways to stop this pollution. But prompt action is what is needed now. Let all the abandoned mines be hunted out to the very last one and sealed off. Where this will not do the job, the water should be impounded or else diverted into another channel.

The huge heaps of gob home, inferior grades of coal that accumulate near coal mines should be kept covered with earth to prevent exposure to air and rainfall. And where the face of any coal seam is exposed to the weather, it should be covered with earth to prevent the oxidation of the iron pyrites or sulphide compound. It takes the action of air and water to start the formation of the bright orange menace known as "Yellow Boy," which is one of the worst killers of life in the streams.

RATES FOR PARCEL POST UPPED 15%

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Increases averaging 15.2% have been approved for Parcel Post rates by the Postal Department.

However, the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has charge of rates on parcel post, withheld decision on a proposal to place a 35-cent flat rate increase on extra hard-to-handle packages.

The ICC said the 15.2% increase could go into effect immediately, but the Postal Department asked for more time in order to consult with big parcel post users. A spokesman said he had no idea when the Postal Department would institute the new rates.

The rate increase is designed to bring in 124 million, an amount the Postal Department says is needed to bring service to a break-even point for parcel post.

The new scale would increase the price of mailing a small package locally from 50 to 60 cents. Sending an eight-pound package coast-to-coast would cost $2.60 compared with the present $2.15.

Fourth-class mail consists of merchandise or printed matter over a pound in weight. Similar matter under a pound goes as third-class mail.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

SALES INCREASE — General Motors reported a second quarter increase of 5.6% in profits on record sales of $6.3 million. The increase was the first quarterly gain among the Big Three auto makers this year. "It appears that the low point in automobile sales has passed," said a GM official.

FRIED CHICKEN — U. S. Dist. Judge Mac Swinford was scheduled to hear a suit last week against Daniel Boone Fried Chicken, Inc. filed by the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission, but disqualified himself when he learned his son had been sold stock in the firm. The case is set for Sept. 15. The firm already has been placed in receivership.

The SEC's suit filed July 10, accuses the Boone firm, Commonwealth Security Investors Inc. and a number of officers of both companies of violating federal securities laws.

Among the defendants are former Gov. A. B. Chandler and two of his sons, J. Daniel Chandler and A. B. Chandler Jr.; Leonard K. Nave of Lexington, James R. Spence of Versailles and Murray A. Morgan of Louisville.

The SEC is asking a court injunction to prevent what it alleges would be further violations of the Securities Exchange Act, the Investment Company Act and the Securities Act.

Most of the charges in the suit involve alleged failure to file statements as required by law, but some of the defendants were accused of accepting illegal compensation and fraudulent dealings.

The 20-page SEC suit contends Daniel Chandler and Nave accepted compensation not as salary—in violation of federal law during a merger of Commonwealth Security and Daniel Boone.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE RAILROAD reported net income of $8,245,629 or $3.33 per share for the six months ended June 30. This compares with $16,081,003, or $6.49 per share for the six months ended June 30, 1969. The 1969 figures include an extraordinary income item of $2,969,723, or $1.20 per share representing the excess of market value over cost of C & E Securities which were applied toward purchase of the Chicago-Evanston Line of the C & E Railroad Company.

Operating revenues for the first six months of 1970 amounted to $182,884,630, as compared with $161,775,983 for the corresponding period of 1969, or an increase of $21,108,647, or 13 per cent. Operating expenses for the first six months of 1970 amounted to $148,531,754, as compared with $127,507,000 for the 1969 period. Higher costs of labor and materials were the principal cost of the increase.

STATE BOND ISSUE — Kentucky Finance Commissioner Albert Christian said the state plans to sell "real soon" $60 million in bonds to finance construction of four toll roads. He said the bond market is improving and indicated the rate of interest will not be much higher than the 5.9% rate paid on $90 million in bonds sold by the state last year.

COAL PRICES SOAR — The Courier-Journal reports that prices in Louisville for home-delivered coal ranges up to $24 a ton. Most of the coal used in Louisville comes from Eastern Kentucky. A general shortage of coal accounts for increases of $6 to $8 a ton this year over last year. Electric generating plants are buying all Eastern Kentucky coal they can get. And another factor is the "competition" developing in Eastern Kentucky for metallurgical coal, including buyers from as far away as Japan offering higher prices. Metallurgical coal, or coking coal, is a purer grade of coal containing fewer non-combustibles. The Associated Press reports that the Japanese are buying more coal in their attempt to double their steel production by 1980.

ALUMINUM PLANT TO KY — Anacoda Co. said last week it will build a $100 million aluminum reduction plant in Henderson county, Ky., that will have a capacity of 120,000 tons of aluminum a year and employ over 800 local workers. Aluminum Company of America will design and act as general contractor for the plant, but the facility will be operated by Anacoda Aluminum Co., a subsidiary of Anacoda Co.

TWA DROPS 200 PILOTS — A Wall Street publication reports Trans World Airlines will lay off 200 pilots throughout the nation by Oct. 1 because of reduced air travel and a leveling off of the airline's expansion. TWA reported a second quarter loss of $4.7 million as contrasted to a profit of $6.2 million for the same period last year.

PORK, FOWL TO DECLINE — Industry sources say meat prices may decline this fall in face of bigger pork and fowl production. A big increase in pig production could reduce pork prices 20%. Also the industry forecasts poultry wholesale prices dropping about 15% because of increased production of chickens and turkeys. Beef will decline least of all.

LEHIGH VALLEY RY. FAILS — Lehigh Valley Railway filed reorganization procedures under the bankruptcy act last week. Officials of the railroad said it was unable to meet its financial obligations, including a $16 million bond issue coming due Aug. 15 as a result of the squeeze caused by the problems of its parent company, Penn Central Railway which went into receivership a few weeks ago.

B & O C & O BONDS — Baltimore & Ohio Railroad sold $27 million of 11% collateral bonds last week in the first railroad refinancing since Penn Central Railway went bankrupt. The rate of 11% is unprecedented and is about 2% higher than B & O expected to pay. But in order to sell the bonds, B & O's parent company, the Chesapeake & Ohio had to assist by issuing C & O mortgage bonds as collateral for B & O's bonds. B & O needed the money to help retire $39.6 million of mortgage bonds due Aug. 1. "We would have liked a $50 million B & O issue, but that would have been too large for the market at this time," said B & O's president Ernest Kelley. The C & O also had to pay 11% for its new issue of mortgage bonds put up as collateral for B & O.

CJ HONORED — The Louisville Courier-Journal is ranked third best newspaper in the nation in a list of 10 top papers. First is the New York Times, and second is the Los Angeles Times, and third is the C.J. Christian Science Monitor ranks seventh, and the Wall Street Journal 10th.

PAINTSVILLE MAY LOSE — Paintsville, which had been included in advance planning for long-range Federal-State road design, may lose that program because the recent census shows Paintsville dropped in population below 4,000. This will make the city lose its urban status and thus not qualify for feeder-system roads when Interstate projects are completed in its area. Mayor Chandler is starting a campaign to find people who were not counted in the census, fearing that the city may be adversely affected in other federal programs because of the population loss.

CREATIVE UPLIFT — Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes in Knott county will hold a three-week workshop known as "Creative Education for Appalachian Uplift" for East Kentucky educators. About 45 education leaders in the mountains will attend.

FIRE CHIEF EXPRESSES THANKS TO ALL WHO HELPED DURING BIG FIRE

I want to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the members of the West Liberty Fire Dept. and to the citizens of West Liberty for their help during the recent fire on Main St.

The members of the Fire Dept. did an exceptionally fine job. I saw many instances where they went beyond the call of duty. Each member was always ready to do just exactly what was asked of him and also do more. Many of the men suffered from the heat and smoke but they never stopped. The only pay these men get is the satisfaction of a job well done and helping a neighbor in distress.

I also want to thank the West Liberty Police Dept. The sheriff and State Police for their fine job in directing traffic we had plenty of room to work and that is very important. Also our city and county officials. They were all cooperating and that was very helpful.

To the Fire Depts. from near by towns who came to help us I can only say thanks. I used the Salsersville Fire Dept. for stand by in case of another fire until Morehead got here. Salsersville like West Liberty doesn't have much equipment. They took a big chance to come and help us and we are much indebted to them. Chief Joe Mauk and his men from Morehead took stand by as soon as they came and stood by until we were able to pick up some of our equipment. The Mt. Sterling and Hazel Green Fire Depts. were put in the back on Trimble St. and Prestonsburg St. and did a good job. The Prestonsburg Fire Truck had their brakes go out on the way down but came on anyway we appreciate that kind of neighbors.

To the citizens of West Liberty we appreciate all the help you gave us. Many times bystanders will get in the way of men moving hose and many times someone will get hurt. But we want to thank you for your conduct during this fire. We have a good Fire Dept. The men know their jobs, they do them and any help you can give is appreciated.

This was the largest fire we have had in West Liberty for a long time. It was a big loss to some of our property owners. I have gone back over the fire and the way we fought it many times in my mind. If I had it to do over I don't know of anything I would change. The men worked in tremendous heat and under much pressure and I feel they did a good job.

We have other buildings in West Liberty that can cause just as much damage and I would like to urge the owners of these buildings to use every precaution to keep down fires.

—Arnold Helton, Chief West Liberty Fire Dept.

Hearing Slated In Slaying of Coach

JACKSON, Ky. — Breathitt County Coroner Dean Spencer said Wednesday a hearing will be resumed July 20 into the circumstances surrounding the slaying of Buckhorn High School basketball coach Mickey Fields.

The 27-year-old coach was shot in the face Sunday after his shot was stopped by Deputy Sheriff Goldie Salyers. He was charged with manslaughter and freed in $5,000 bond.

Police said witnesses in Fields' auto claimed the coach asked Salyers to show his badge and the deputy refused. An argument ensued and Fields was killed.

Wheat Referendum Has Been Postponed

Secretary of Agriculture, Clifford M. Hardin, has announced postponement of the National Wheat Referendum previously scheduled for July 27-31, according to Ben Cox Chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. The action was authorized by Congress.

The postponement permits the USDA to delay holding the referendum not later than Oct. 15, 1970, or 30 days after Congress adjourns, whichever date is earlier.

Accordingly, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's ASCS, which administers the wheat, feed grain, and similar program, has instructed its State and County offices across the nation to withhold ballots and other referendum materials Mr. Cox said.

The Chairman explained that basic farm legislation requires a referendum for wheat marketing quotas. However, the Agricultural Act of 1965 suspended this referendum requirement from 1965 through the 1970 crop year. Unless new farm legislation, now pending, is enacted by the Congress, basic legislation will again go into effect, and a referendum will then be required in 1970 for the 1971 crop year.

WORK ON RED RIVER DAM TO START IN 1972 SAYS CORPS OF ENGINEERS

Dam at Compromise Site Scheduled For Completion In 1977

STANTON, Ky. — Construction of the Red River Dam at the "compromise" site five and a half miles downstream from where the Corps of Engineers first wanted to build it "is presently scheduled to begin in the spring of 1972," Col. John Rhett, the Corps' Louisville District engineer, said yesterday.

"The first construction item is expected to be access roads to the dam site," said Col. Rhett.

Completion of the dam is scheduled for 1977 "dependent upon continued appropriation of funds," he added.

A Corps of Engineers spokesman said he did not know what effect, if any, the shifting of the dam site would have on the fund schedule but that he didn't anticipate any major problems.

The dam will be an earth and rock structure controlling run-off from more than 230 miles of drainage area. A gated conduit through the dam will control the normal flows and the pool. An uncontrolled spillway will be provided from emergency release of floodwaters.

The Corps of Engineers' original plans for a dam 47 miles above the mouth of the river kicked up a red-hot controversy between the corps and conservationists who objected to destruction of "the unique scientific and esthetic value of the area."

The Cumberland Chapter of the Sierra Club provided formal opposition to any dam at all, but conservationists in general joined in the controversy.

LED THE FIGHT

Gov. Louie B. Nunn and U. S. Sen. John Sherman Cooper led the fight for the downstream location and the alternate site was agreed to by the Corps of Engineers last spring.

The dam will be in Daniel Boone National Forest.

The Corps said yesterday that the bid-asking and other preliminary steps would precede the start of construction by about six months.

So the site was reluctantly shifted with the corps pointing out that the change would run up the cost of the dam by about $2 million to $3 million.

The plan to be followed calls for a permanent lake level of 700 to 710 feet above sea level, with a temporary flood stage of up to 780 feet. Under the original plan, the permanent lake level would have been 767 feet.

At a hearing last April 13, William Leegan of the Corps of Engineers said the 710-foot level would guarantee an adequate supply of water for Lexington, Mt. Sterling and other cities, while the 700-foot mark would guarantee them only 65 percent of the water needed by the year 2000.

"MOST DESIRABLE" William Holstein, president of the Cumberland Chapter of the Sierra Club, argued that the 700-foot level would be most desirable "if there must be a dam at all."

Although the project—still in the design stage, the argument over water levels seems to have been ended by Col. Rhett's announcement yesterday.

The Corps of Engineers was allocated $500,000 for pre-construction planning.

Last November, the Senate Appropriations Committee cleared the way for $500,000 to be budgeted for start of construction. The amount had been shaved from about $1,900,000 by the Nixon administration.

All projects such as the Red River Dam are financed by continuing appropriations by Congress.

The original cost of the dam, estimated by the Corps of Engineers in 1967, was $11,700,000.

The dam will be in Daniel Boone National Forest.

The Corps said yesterday that the bid-asking and other preliminary steps would precede the start of construction by about six months.

ASC COMMUNITY COMMITTEEMEN
WILL BE NOMINATED BY PETITION

Morgan County farmers will have the opportunity to nominate by petition candidates for ASC community committee posts.

The nominating period began July 28 and will close August 17. "This year we hope farmers in Morgan County will nominate by petition full slates for all seven communities. A full slate means a minimum of six candidates to choose from in electing a community committee of three members and two alternates," Ben Cox, Chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said.

All ASC community committees are elected annually. The newly-elected community committees will convene shortly after their September election to elect one new ASC County Committee member and two alternates. County Committee members serve three-year terms, with one new member elected each year. Alternates are elected annually.

Mr. Cox explained that the County ASC Committee administers agricultural programs such as marketing quotas and acreage allotments, price-support loans and purchases, conservation cost-sharing, and other farm action programs at the county level, dealing directly with producers. Community committees not only elect County Committee members and alternates, but also help the County Committee administer these programs.

"There's no red tape tied up in nominating a community committee candidate by petition," Mr. Cox said. "All that's really needed is a sheet of paper naming a candidate — and six or more signatures by eligible voters on paper. Petitions are limited to one nominee each, but voters may sign as many petitions as they want. A farmer who is an owner, tenant, or sharecropper is an eligible voter in the community where his farm interest is. He can only nominate and vote in one community, however, even if he has farm interests in more than one."

The ASC Committee Chairman said that if at least six eligible candidates are nominated by petitions submitted by farmers in their community, no other nominations need be made. However, if less than six are nominated by petition, the incumbent community committee will complete the slate, selecting candidates actively engaged in farming or ranching.

WATER DOWSING MORE PHYSICS
THAN FAKERY, SAYS A SCIENTIST

Water-witching or dowsing is a valid scientific concept and has been tried by Marines seeking the labyrinthine tunnels of the Viet Cong, said a noted scientist speaking at the annual meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science in Richmond, Va., last week.

The scientists was Dr. Z. V. Harvalk, physicist and chief consultant of the U. S. Army Advance Material Concepts Agency. He presented a paper on dowsing at the meeting of scientists.

Dr. Harvalk said there is more physics than fakery in the principle of dowsing.

From time immemorial dowsers have used a forked willow limb to find water when sinking a water well. Some believe in it while others scoff at it as fakery.

And some believe in dowsing so strongly they use it to find underground oil and other valuable elements. Some waterworks officials and contractors even use the principle to find location of lost water mains. But they use a forked piece of wire instead of a willow limb. And it saves a lot of digging, they tell you.

Dr. Harvalk says the human body seems to be able to detect minute changes in a magnetic field. When the human body interacts with such a minute change, a slight twisting of the forearm occurs.

The slight twisting can be detected if the person is holding a relatively long rod which amplifies the motion. Amplification, in fact, is the only purpose of the so-called diving rod, Harvalk says, so they can be made of anything, metal, plastic, or even the traditional willow limb.

But the dowsing is not selective: "You cannot say this is water, or a tunnel, or buried metal or an underground electric or telephone cable," he said. "You can only say that there's a magnetic disturbance."

Scientists know that the atmosphere is polarized positively, and the earth is polarized negatively. Water is decidedly negative in polarization. Thus, a person holding a willow limb while in a passive state of mind and breathing deeply (air that is positively polarized) may be able to detect the negative polarizations in the earth—and water is highly negative. And metals in the earth are highly negative.

So, there's really more physics than fakery in water-witching and dowsing, we agree.

Prevent Accidents
PRACTICE FARM SAFETY

ODDS AND ENDS

By Earl Kinner, Jr.

The same quarter-block
area of West Liberty's Main Street that was ravaged by fire earlier this month was wiped out by fire on December 4, 1932. Estimated loss in this year's fire is around $200,000. Loss of buildings and businesses on the same site back in 1932 was estimated at $25,000, according to an old edition of The Courier. (The story from the Dec. 8, 1932 edition of The Courier was published in last week's paper.) In that 1932 edition,
Norman Gullett's Home Meat Market was advertising sirloin steak for 25 cents per pound and beef roast for 15 cents per pound. A pound of breakfast bacon sold for 20 cents per pound. Two stores which were burned out during the 1932 fire—Stanley Ryan's Jew Store and Blair, Bellamy and Caskey—earlier had advertised "men's sheepskin coats $1.29," "ladies' fine crepe and silk dresses $3.00 and up."

Judged by today's inflated standards, these sums don't seem like very much. However, in 1932, the nation was in the middle of "the great depression." Money was scarce, hard to come by, and many had to dig deep in order to afford the items mentioned above. That same year, Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President on the Democrat ticket—his first term—by the largest majority ever registered in a presidential race,
and the Republicans predicted that the Democrat victory would "be accompanied by such calamities as the growing of grass in the city streets."

West Liberty's volunteer fire department received a lot of well-justified praise following the big fire here two weeks ago. These are the fellows who make up the fire department:
Arnold Helton, Kenneth Turner,
Millard Sheets, Walter
Brown, Harold Frederick, Carl
Brown, Phillip May, Homer
(Sonny) Rose, Kederick Caskey,
John Stevens, Charles Holbrook,
Roy Caskey, Floyd Sherman,
Scotty McClain, Paul Williams,
Reynold Brown, Denzil Elliott,
Puster Phillips, Jake Bradley,
Paul L. Reed, Larry Evans, and Winfred Howard.

As you swelter during the current heat wave, you may be interested to know that highest temperature registered officially at West Liberty in 13 years was 98 degrees on July 2. This comes from Arnold Helton, local feather reporter for the U. S. Weather Bureau. So far this summer (up until and including Wednesday) we have had 17 days in which temperatures climbed above 90, said Helton — three days in May,
two days in June, and 12 days
in July.

Though beloved by Morgan County's new country club set,
the game of golf is foreign and somewhat mystifying to most Morgan Countians. The intricacies of the game are not quite so mystifying, however, if you think of golf merely as a form of billiards; or as some refer to it: "cow pasture pool."

The Lexington Herald-Leader
this week joined the ranks of conservationists whose aim is to preserve East Kentucky's Red River Gorge in its natural state. It seems like only yesterday that our editorials against a proposed high dam that would have inundated the wilderness gorge drew the ire and verbal fire of the Lexington newspaper. We're glad they've come around to our way of thinking. We figured they would once they quite listening to the glib line of the Army Corps of Engineers and looked into the facts for themselves. Here's what Lexington Herald Editor Don Mills had to say regarding the gorge in Sunday's edition of the Lexington paper:

"Penrose Ecton of this city,
a man who truly loves nature and the outdoors, presented a magnificent slide show about the Red River Gorge the other day to the Lexington Rotary Club.

"Ecton, who is president of a supply company here, spends just about every available weekend hiking in the Gorge. He's been up and down practically every trail in the Daniel Boone Forest which surrounds the Gorge.

"Watching his excellent presentation of the colorful river, water falls, wild flowers, rock formation, the great variety of trees and the unspoiled wilderness one could not help but think how fortunate Lexington is to have such a place so close by. It's only about 45 minutes away by car.

"In the years to come, as the population of this area mushrooms, it will be appreciated even more — providing, of course, the area can be preserved in its wilderness state. His shots of the Red River were particularly outstanding.

"It is good to know that not all our rivers are ruined, not all our waterways are polluted.
There is a way to preserve these rivers officially.

"They can be brought under the protection of the Interior Department by adding them to the national system of Wild and Scenic Rivers.

"Here in Kentucky, the wild rivers have strong and articulate friends. We also have a few "ivers. Fortunately we have not on the Red but also the Cumberland, Rockcastle and Green rivers to mention only four.

"The Red is the wildest of them all as far as white water and rock formations are concerned and well-protected by forested and unpopulated areas.
But the Cumberland, which works its way through southeastern Kentucky, is a beautiful clear dark stream worth preserving, too.

"The Rockcastle, which begins as a small creek near Mc-Kee in Jackson County and works
its way south through Rock-castle County and finally into the Cumberland in Laurel County, is another beautiful mountain stream.

"There are stretches of all four of these rivers that ought to be preserved. An effort was made to do just this in the last session of the legislature but the bill was mutilated and finally defeated in the State Senate. It takes an act of the legislature before a river can be added to the national system of Wild and Scenic Rivers.

"Strangely enough, Kentucky, which has more miles of running rivers and streams than any other state except Alaska, is one of the few states which hasn't taken advantage of the bid opening at the Division of Contract Procurement at a cost of $2 each. Bid proposals are issued only to prequalified contractors. Remittance payable to the State Treasurer of Kentucky must accompany request for proposals.
